Highland Floors

The very first inspiration of designing a floor that customers will fall in love with, is choosing the correct trees. At Highland Floors we only select the finest grades of European Oak, from licensed managed plantations throughout Europe.

Selecting the best logs allows for a beautiful grain and consistency of colouring and surface finishing. Old world techniques such as hand scraping, wire brushing, raised knots and chiselling are engaged. Finally, choosing an alluring, enduring colour pallet is the final step in the artistic part of the design process.

Decades of timber knowledge and experience have afforded Highland Floors market leading technology relating to board construction, environmental friendliness and unique visual finishes. From the stringent milling processes using the most advanced mills available, to the QC and inspection teams committed to every stage of the production process, each and every single board of our oak range is individually cared for.

The world leading technology that goes into our adhesives and coatings far surpasses Australian and European VOC requirements. The stained colours, which include reactive stains, capture the light in a natural subtle way allowing the warm grey and natural tones of the timber to be highlighted. Smoking and fuming the timber, collectively enhance the natural beauty of the growth rings and bring out a depth of colours that no other timber floor can offer.

190mm Oak

Surface finishing is what gives a floor its beauty. Highland Floors advanced surface techniques include wire brushing, smoking of the natural tannin's, perma-colour stains and finally world leading German Klumpp clear coatings. Our 190mm – 2.0 series has 10 designer colours that will compliment just about every family home.

Highland Floors Oak Hardwood

Highland Floors natural oak products utilise both Välinge's most advanced 5G locking system as well as a standard Tongue & Groove joining system. The 5G Välinge is the most efficient way of installing engineered floating floor today, whilst the T&G system is ideal for directly stuck down applications. Both joining systems are created from Eucalyptus hardwood centre core layers giving the floor excellent joining strength & exceptional board stability.

Highland Floors made sure that dimensional stability was maintained for Australia's harsh environment, with the use of hardwood material for its core. This then balances the top layer (Lamella) and the core together, so when the floor experiences extreme fluctuations in humidity within the home, the floor would then display minimal movement to any new environmental condition.
